

Dons meet to discuss proposal to RCUK Global Challenges Research Fund

Dons from the University of Nairobi (UoN), Brunel University and Nelson Mandela Institution of Science and Technology held a seminar on Thursday, November 24, 2016 to formulate a proposal on food security that could win them a funding from the Research Councils UK (RCUK).

Leading the UoN team were the Dean, School of Engineering, Prof. J. Mbuthia and the Chairman, Environmental and Biosystems Engineering, Eng. Prof. Ayub N. Gitau.

The funding initiative is enabled through UK's main public funders of food-related research and training who work together through Global Food Security to meet the challenge of providing the world's population with a sustainable, secure supply of good quality food.
